Amalgamation Act Given OK. By Governor

Act Makes Possible
Joining of County
To San Francisco

Governor C. C. Young on Tuesday signed the enabling act passed by the legislature at its recent session and which provides the machinery whereby San Francisco may amalgamate all or portions of this county. The measure does not provide for annexation of this county to San Francisco, but makes it legally possible for this county to amalgamate with the larger city when the people of San Mateo county desire to do so.

Amalgamation Act Given OK. By Governor

The act, known as the Williamson Act, A. B. 630, was signed by Governor Young over the protest of the supervisors of San Mateo county. This action was explained by the governor in a short statement issued following the signing of the bill. The protest of the supervisors, he said, was the only protest received, while so many letters were received favoring the passage of the measure, that he believed that public opinion was on the side of the amalgamation bill. He had left the signing of the measure until near the end of the time allowed for signing bills in order to gain an understanding of the feeling toward it in this county.

Amalgamation Act Given OK. By Governor

Governor Young on Tuesday also signed the county government bill of Santa Barbara county. The county government bill of San Mateo county has not yet been signed, and as only a very brief time is left for the signing of measures, it is generally conceded that this bill will be killed by a pocket veto.

Succumbs to Nervous Strain
Following Election

The entire county was given a severe shock yesterday morning by the announcement of the suicide in his San Mateo home of Joseph B. The untimely death of this prominent attorney is thought to have been the result of a severe nervous breakdown suffered by him several weeks ago. He was one of six candidates for one of the three positions on the city council of San Mateo, and at the election was high man. Soon after the election, however, and before qualifying for office his health gave way, and he was confined to a hospital with a severe nervous attack.

Annexation A Possibility

ANNEXATION to San Francisco is now a possibility. It is not, at the present time, however a probability. The legal limitations which for years have stood in the way of any or all of this county being joined with San Francisco were removed this week when Governor Young signed the amalgamation bill, but while this makes it possible, such action can only be taken with the consent of the people of the district affected.

Before any move is taken by the people of this county to join with our large neighbor on the north in any governmental way a great many matters should be given the most earnest thought by the people of this county. Such a move would be easy enough, but its undoing would be almost if not quite impossible.

Before this move is even seriously considered, the people of San Mateo county should make sure that the advantage to them of annexation to San Francisco is more than offset by the disadvantage which would follow from the resignation of their individual rights. If, after such study, annexation to San Francisco appears as the best solution to all the troubles which beset the county and its various municipalities—then, we say, let's have annexation.

But before any such unalterable action is taken there are other experiments which should be made right here in San Mateo county. A large group of residents of this county believe that what the county needs most is a re-apportionment of the supervisory districts; another large and growing group believe that a charter form of government would solve the county's needs. These and other rational changes in our form of government should be given a fair trial before amalgamation with any other political subdivision is considered.

Always With The Party

By D. E. O'KEEFE

THE Republican Party of California is proud of its junior senator, Samuel M. Shortridge. The vote taken on the farm relief bill this week found Shortridge voting for the administration. He did not bolt his party and vote against the measure. He has consistently supported Herbert Hoover in all his plans of legislation. No man is greater than his party. The political group that honors him with an election to office expects loyalty. Mr. Shortridge has always supported the leader of his party and for that reason he may look for assistance when he needs it from the political group he has served. This loyalty has made Shortridge one of the big men of the nation and one of the most popular senators in Washington.

Those Beastly Bill Boards

MANY of our cynical brethren give deep thought and propound to one another, "Just what good is the legislature?" and paraphrase an ancient Biblical phrase, "Can any good come out of Sacramento?" However, our much abused assemblymen and senators have, it seems for once at least, struck a note of public opinion—one that will be received wholeheartedly by all of California. This is the ridding of the highways of obnoxious sign boards.

If present plans are carried through, and the California Development Association intends to see that they are, the scenery along California highways will not in the future be blocked by gigantic picture of voluptuous-eyed women anxious to walk a mile for some sort of an animal, nor the cigarette puffing film queen, who, it is said, does not cough, but likely does.

If the legislature is successful in finding the ways and means for ridding the roadsides of California of such and other bill boards it will have done one thing, at least, to merit the gratitude of the people of this state.

Roadside advertising is always disfiguring, and according to the California Automobile Association, it is also dangerous as it is intended to catch the eye of the passing motorist, and if it does this, it makes his driving a menace to others on the road. With so many better mediums of advertising, and with a strong and increasing public opinion against bill boards, it is not likely that very drastic measures will be necessary on the part of the legislature. The advertisers, themselves, should learn that advertising opposed to public opinion, is worse than no advertising at all.

"Dad" Will Have His Day on Sunday

"The finest pal I ever had, Is the great big boy, I call 'My Dad.' " Dad will have his day Sunday. On that day, Father's Day, the head of the family will be accorded a bit more than his usual due, when sons and daughters and even mothers see to it that he is properly enthroned and deservedly glorified.

Thousands of Redwoodites and other sons and daughters throughout the nation, for one day, will pay homage to their paternal parent with gifts symbolizing the affection due the one who carries the financial burdens of the family 365 days a year.

Unprecedented sales of merchandise suitable for gifts for father have been reported during the last few days. Dealers in the various articles trace their sales to the proximity of the big event.

The same color scheme in flowers as is employed on Mother's Day will be the vogue Sunday—red carnations worn in the button hole, if dad is alive, or white, if he has passed on. Telegraphic greetings will be instituted this year and special rates for sending messages to fathers will be in effect.

Special greeting cards, with appropriate sentiments printed on them, are on sale at various stationery and book shops in Redwood City. One of the verses follows:

"Here's to a certain party,
The best of the lot, I'll say
Wholesome and frank and hearty,
My finest of friends today;
Closer than any brother,
No better pal have I had,
Sharing my heart with mother,
That's how I think of you, Dad."

Several Redwood City churches will remember Dad in their services Sunday.

Business Folly

WHEN a merchant advertises in a newspaper, he really places himself in a dangerous position, if the following story is to be credited, for it seems that the traveling salesman encounters many new and strange complications.

It seems that a traveling salesman for a nationally known article called at a store in a small town and was somewhat dismayed to find that the stock was not "moving."

"Do you ever advertise this stock?" he asked the village storekeeper.

"Nope," was the answer.

"And why not?"

"Wal, I'll tell ye," came the answer, "the last time I did that, folks just flocked in here from miles around and bought every bit that I had in stock. It makes too darned much work."

Life

A little space 'twixt two eternities—
And each a mystery;
A mingling of discomfort and of ease;
A struggle to be free;
A past whose veil we cannot penetrate,
To find whence came the soul;
A future, lying just beyond the gate
Where there is no parole.

We cannot alter the before or after,
But ours the present day,
To win the right to joy, the right to laughter,

Or turn the sky to gray.
A little span to spread the joy of living,
To give the hour its worth,
And by the rapture that accrues from living.

Bring Heaven nearer earth.
—Dr. Frank Fischer.

How Much More Can We Stand

THE GREAT NORTHERN has been trying for years to gain entrance into California. This road, an integral part of one of the greatest of America's trans-continental systems, recently spent twenty-five million dollars for an eight-mile tunnel in Washington, in anticipation of an early entry into this state.

If the Great Northern is allowed to connect with one of the existing lines, an uninterrupted flow of immigration—to say nothing of tourists and sightseers—will immediately be loosened from the entire vast domain of the great northwest.

Every obstacle has so far been placed in the way of this great development, through which all our people would benefit. How much longer are the people going to allow predatory interest to stand in the way of California's progress?

Songs of Plain Folks

By James Lewis Hays

Paperhanger Steve

Old Steve was the paperhanger
For half of the countryside;
He did his work like an artist,
Taking a lot of pride
In matching the patterns neatly,
And all of us loved to hear
His rambling and witty stories
When he papered every year.

A little old shriveled bachelor,
Was "Paperhanger Steve";
(Though he treasured a certain picture
In a locker, I believe)
He lived in a one-room cottage
With scarcely a decent rug,
All alone—except for a dog,
A post, and a whisky jug.

A "gentleman born" we called him,
And—when the jug had won—
Although he hadn't a penny,
The proper things were done.
An old man quavered a sermon
And some folks cried for Steve;
A boy who petted a starving dog
Couldn't get it to leave.

Home owners who object to being bathed in gasoline fumes from passing motors as they take the air on their verandas, and mothers who shiver with visions of accidents until their children return from school, will be interested in what is going on in Radburn, New Jersey, says the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

For the houses in Radburn are turned inside out so the porches front on the gardens and the streets in Radburn are laid out so the pedestrians can pursue his way without thinking of his accident insurance.

And if anyone gets a bad break in this made to order town it will be the hired girls who will have to look out on traffic tie-ups as they stir the soup; but the home owner, who after all is the one who paid for the house, will be sitting on the edge of a quiet garden.

For Radburn has been raised directly from a real estate deed with no mistakes of early settlers to make the task difficult. It has been financed by New York capitalists and is being built by the famous City Housing Corporation that has been engaged for some years in practical demonstrations of how to increase the efficiency of American homes.

Financing by New York Capitalists John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is one of the outstanding men who has agreed to underwrite a large part of the total capital required to build this little city; and Felix Warburg, Miss Anne Morgan, and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, are among the stockholders of the limited dividend corporation.

Nor is Radburn a dream of the rich for the Housing Corporation has already distinguished itself in a garden community it developed in Long Island City; and two hundred houses are nearing completion in Radburn now. The 1250 acres that will comprise the town will be opened for both residential and industrial purposes, the homes, of course, being separated from the commercial districts, in accordance with the most advanced principles of zoning.

It is estimated that the project will cost $70,000,000 and that it will take ten years to complete the work. The homes will be designed mostly for small salaried workers who may play their trades in Radburn itself as industries located there or in the near-by industrial towns or even in New York that is only thirty-two minutes distant. The American Radiator Company has completed a $100,000 warehouse and distributing center in the new town.

Streets for Pedestrians In this city, that will ultimately have a population of 25,000 people, a network of garden walks connect groups of houses and traverse the entire community without crossing a vehicular traffic street. And these pleasant foot paths are reached from the garden doors of these houses that are built around short closed streets so that only the few automobiles going directly to these houses will ever pass their doors.

Radburn was laid out by expert city planners who told that there should not be through traffic on every street and if a town is "raised up" from the beginning, with short auxiliary streets, such as Radburn has, traffic can be regulated for all time to come and residential streets need not be so wide. The main arteries of vehicular travel in Radburn will be amply wide and adequate, says the Housing Corporation, for the thousands of people who are expected to go through Radburn, which is strategically located between the growing industrial towns of Hackensack and Paterson, with combined populations of 155,000.

A through street entirely encircles this model town and cuts through its center; but pedestrians do not have to cross it but go under it via a tunnel. Thus, school children, no matter on what street they live, can go to and fro to their studies in perfect safety, which will certainly make for the peace of mind of Radburn mothers, comments the real estate association.

The backs of the Radburn houses front on the auxiliary streets on the theory that the noises, dirt, and fumes from modern traffic is objectionable to the home owner, and that a few feet of front yard do not remove him far enough from this confusion. Therefore, the Radburn houses are turned around so the living rooms, dining rooms and porches look out on generous gardens provided by the Radburn plan and the kitchens look out on the "stub" end streets.

Streets No Longer Pleasant

There was a time, reminisces the Association, when it was delightful to sit along the street. Years ago the street was a parkway with an occasional horse and buggy passing by. Housewives took their sewing to the front windows and neighbors called pleasantries to each other from the porch steps. Now anything one might say would be drowned out by an automobile siren or thud of a passing truck. Now the street is a service alley even in most residential districts, and householders are drenched in gasoline fumes, irritated by noise and worried about the safety of their children.

We must have traffic because the modern activities of the modern home owners make it necessary. They won't carry home parcels and so the parcels must be delivered. But we can gain quiet of olden times by the simple device of turning our houses around; and 25,000 people will be living this way within the next ten years in New Jersey.

Merchants Warned To Look for Bad Government Bills

Redwood City merchants were warned this week by the Redwood City police department to be on the look out for counterfeit paper money, and have asked the co-operation of the merchants in finding the persons who are placing it in circulation.

Counterfeit $20.00 notes on the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago (7G), have appeared on the Pacific Coast: Check Letter D, face plate 244, lower right hand corner note; back plate No. 905, lower right hand corner of note; Frank White, treasurer U. S. A. W. Mellon, Secretary of Treasury; pen and ink lines have been substituted for the silk fiber; the Treasury seal and the numbering are too light a blue; back is printed in pale green ink. Number one of one of the notes seen is G36410836A. It is not a good counterfeit.

These notes have been passed, so far, by two men, both being six feet tall and smooth shaven, one being about 45 years of age and the other about 50.

Should one of the notes be presented to you, try to detain the person presenting it and notify the Police Department by calling Redwood 800, or by asking the phone operator for the Police Department.

State To Fight Entry of White Fly at Border

SACRAMENTO, June 12.—(CNB) Playing for a $1,100,000 stake, California has flung its line against the Mediterranean fruit fly from infested Florida westward and has practically doubled the guard along its own borders, the State Department of Agriculture revealed today.

With the campaign against the most dreaded of all fruit and vegetable scourges at a crisis in the eastern state, interception of shipments of Florida oranges and grapefruit or other produce is almost a daily occurrence at border points, ports or aboard incoming trains and buses.

Reiterating warning that if the fruit fly secures a foothold in California, the economic loss will be incalculable, Governor Young today called attention to the fact that it might affect 1,903,000 acres of bearing and non-bearing fruit, 60,000 acres in vegetables and 220,000 acres planted to cotton in this state.

There is more than $900,000,000 invested in agricultural lands which might be affected, he said, while improvements at least $200,000,000. New quarantine stations at Crescent City, Hornbrook, Dorris, New Pine Creek, Cedarville and opposite Malin, Oregon, on the northern border are doing particularly effective work, the Governor reported.

The city attorney presented a street resolution in regard to opening the blind streets in the city. The attorney said an assessment of the work could be done by taking in the whole city and all defraying the expenses. Walker said there were seven lots involved that could be bought for about $8,000. The mayor thought that the property

Too Hot To Eat?

HOW often during the hot summer months you sit down to eat and get up without taking a bite. You say, "It's too hot to eat."

When you have this feeling, you should eat summer candy. Candy is the most appetizing of the carbohydrates—and carbohydrates are essential to a strong body and a healthy system. These carbohydrates stored up in your tissues give your system the necessary fuel for energy and activity, thus preventing your tissues from burning up. This last is the real reason for summer irritability and lack of appetite.

You can get your candy, made especially for summer weather, at your Rexall Store at unusually low prices. Eat our summer candy for summer energy.

City Council Meets

The city council met in regular session Tuesday evening with all members answering the roll call.

Frank Becker, in a communication, notified the council that he had fifty gallons of gasoline stored at his home. This was to comply with the terms of the new gasoline ordinance passed recently by the council. The letter was filed.

E. M. Rankin communicated with the council asking for the insurance on the new car purchased by the council. The matter was referred to the mayor to secure a policy covering all insurance on the machine.

Joseph B. Felix was appointed pound master of the city at the suggestion of the chief of police.

City Attorney Whitworth reported that he had seen the telephone company in regard to moving the poles on the main streets. The company's representative assured him that if the city would secure easements on certain rear streets the poles would be removed or the wires put under ground. While on the subject the attorney said he had interviewed Colonel Skaggs and Mr. Moody of the state highway commission in reference to widening the highway through Menlo Park. While they could say nothing officially advised securing a map of the thoroughfare sought to be widened and present it to the board and when the budget was being prepared next July provisions would be made for the work.

Councilman Blake presented the report of the chief of police for the month of May showing that $222 had been collected, $251.50 from licenses, $480.50 motor vehicle violations and $90 from other fines.

The ordinance regulating the use of explosives in town and providing a punishment for violation of same was passed and adopted. This will permit merchants in the city to sell certain fire works on July 4.

The matter of taking over the lighting district by the city came up on report of the city attorney, who said that the council had two courses to pursue, one was to take over the entire district and the other was to let the territory outside the city lapse and then absorb it.

The outside district, if large enough, could be maintained independently. The attorney was directed to communicate with the supervisors as to the procedure in the matter.

The city attorney presented a street resolution in regard to opening the blind streets in the city. The attorney said an assessment of the work could be done by taking in the whole city and all defraying the expenses. Walker said there were seven lots involved that could be bought for about $8,000. The mayor thought that the property owners in that district would be greatly benefited by opening the thoroughfares and a lower figure ought to be secured. Weeden said that an estimate should be secured before any further proceedings were started. Walker insisted on the work being done. City Engineer Kneese presented a map of the district in which the blind streets are located. After much discussion the whole matter was laid over until Tuesday evening next when the entire question will be heard by the council.

This was the time set for officer Feeley to appear and show cause why he disturbed the peace and quiet of certain Chinese in the Oriental quarters. Feeley plead not guilty. One of the complainants, a pretty Chinese woman, was placed on the stand. She said that Feeley entered her home every afternoon and in the evening without a warrant, that when a raid was made on her place some time ago $10 and a number of cigars were stolen. She was corroborated by Miss Sadie Fry. At this point things were coming warm. Chief of Police Furman claimed that the raid referred to was made by the state officials and not by his department. The witness became tangled up with one of the adherents of the department and the argument had to be quelled by the chief. When the excitement was at its height the mayor ordered the matter thrashed out at the Tuesday night meeting.

City Engineer Kneese said he was ready to go on with the numbering of the streets and remaining several of them and to prepare a map. He was directed to proceed with the work.

On motion by Blake and seconded by Walker a warrant was ordered drawn for the new car for the police department amounting to $630.65.

Pembroke, the Stanford Park farmer, injected some humor into the affair by suggesting that the sides be painted red and that the inscription "Menlo Park Chariot for Public Use Only," be placed on the machine.

The complaint of Mr. and Mrs. C. Cattaneo of Pine street was acted upon and the council exonerated the chief of police. The Cattaneos complained that the chief had entered their home without a warrant and was rude to them. The chief said that he had gone to the home to interview their son who had accidentally injured a playmate. The boy had recovered and the children have again become playmates.

The sum of $150.35 was received from the county as the second installment of city taxes. Bills in the sum of $107.95 were allowed by the council.

The council adjourned to meet June 25th.

Award Contract for Heating System

The grammar school trustees met Tuesday evening to award a contract for installing a steam heating system in the school to cost $4500. The new auditorium will be completed about July 1st.

Work To Start Soon

Work of widening and resurfacing Middlefield road is to start soon. The county has awarded a contract for $37,000 for its portion of the work. The City of Atherton is arranging to go on with its unit, which is about as large as that of the county. The city will organize an assessment district to include all property east of the Southern Pacific tracts. By this assessment the sum of $19,000 will be raised. The county has agreed to pay $16,000 and the city of Redwood City $5,000, making a total of $40,000. When finished the road will be one of the finest in the state.

Oak Grove Avenue
The suggestion by this paper to open Oak Grove avenue to the proposed Bayshore boulevard has occasioned a wide range of discussion, all agreeing that the suggestion is a good one and that some effort should be put forth to accomplish the enterprise. Some have declared that Glenwood avenue would be the proper thoroughfare to cut through to the lower road. It is said that the Flood estate would be willing to grant the right of way, should this avenue be chosen. Of course, the city could only lend its aid and support. If Atherton opposed the proposition, then it would fail. It is understood, however, that the millionaire city favors the project.

Kiwanians See Views Of Big Electric Work

An illustrated address on the hydro-electric development which is being made at present by the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., and about it expects to complete by 1934, was given Wednesday before members of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club. The talk was given by E. M. Seel, a member of the publicity department of the electric company. Seel also told of the natural gas project now nearing completion.

By the hydro-electric development this company expects by 1934 to have available 176,000 horse power in addition to that which is now being supplied by existing power plants. About the same year, too, a steam plant will be completed in San Francisco which will be one of the largest in the world.

The natural gas project includes bringing natural gas into the San Francisco bay area from oil fields in the San Joaquin valley. A second pipe line to serve Richmond is being contemplated by the company.

The chairman of the meeting Wednesday was Duncan Reynard, manager of the Redwood City office of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. In the absence of the president, Edward Harrison, Roscoe Stevens, vice-president of the club, presided.

Dusel Thanks Voters For Council Election

W. J. Dusel has issued the following statement in regard to his election as city councilman:

As one of the successful candidates I most heartily wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the voters of Redwood City for the splendid support given me in electing me councilman and I shall at all times give ear to questions relative to problems concerning the welfare of our community and shall always welcome constructive criticism.

My only regret is that the bond issue for the new city hall did not carry. Had the public shown more civic pride and interest in voting, we, no doubt, would have had a new city hall and adequate equipment to house the machinery under which the new charter will operate. As it is now, my suggestion is that a survey be made of the city auditorium over the fire house to the end that all necessary steps be taken to protect the city records both in the city engineer's office and the city attorney's office and to provide office space in the present city hall for the city manager to be chosen by us.

All available space must now be utilized until such time when civic pride shall cry out, in a voice to be heard by all, demanding a new city hall adequate for our needs and purposes and a credit to our city, as was the one just voted down.

Game Questions And the Answers

Q. Since the law forbids the sale of trout, how is it that we can buy trout in certain markets and restaurants?

A. Those trout that you see for sale have been raised at domestic fish farms licensed by law. The eggs from which they are reared must be produced in a domestic fish farm or imported from without the state. The fish that leave the farms must be tagged with official tags.

Q. Why is it that trout in some waters never seem to grow beyond a certain size?

A. It is probably due to a deficiency in the food supply or to some peculiar quality of the water. This condition has often been materially aided by the planting of new or additional fish food. Sometimes the wrong species of fish have been introduced into the waters and a new strain is necessary.

Q. Is an angling license required to take game fish from the ocean?

A. Yes.

Q. Do veterans obtain angling and hunting licenses free of charge?

A. Only the veterans of the Civil War.

Q. Is an angling license required to take cat fish with hook and line, and is there any size limit?

A. No angling license is required to take cat fish except for commercial purposes. There is no size limit or closed season on cat fish for the angler.

Q. What becomes of the money which is collected in fines which are levied for violation of the fish and game laws?

A. All such money is remitted to the State Treasury and becomes a part of the Fish and Game Preservation Fund, which fund may only be used for the protection, propagation and conservation of the wild life of the state.

Q. Can abalones be exported?

A. No. In order to conserve the supply, which is considered to be of a limited quantity, exportation of either the meat or the shell in its raw state is prohibited. Only finished articles made of the abalone shell may be shipped out of the state.

Q. Is there any closed season on jackrabbits or cottontails?

A. There is no closed season on jackrabbits which are listed as predatory animals.

The only general open season on cottontails is the month of December except in District 4 (Imperial and San Diego counties) where there is no closed season. The limit on cottontails is 15 per day and 30 per week in all districts except District 4 and 4½, where there is no limit.

There is a further provision of the law, however, that allows the owner or tenant of any premises, or any person authorized in writing by such owner or tenant, to kill cottontails on those premises; but cottontails so killed may not be shipped or sold during the closed season.

Participation of All Counties Sought At State Fair

All but five of California's 56 counties are now in line for exhibits at the Diamond Jubilee State Fair and Western Exposition next September, Robert A. Condee, president of the State Agricultural Society, is hopeful that the remaining five will decide to plan, realizing his dream of a California State Fair with every county exhibiting.

In addition to the counties which entered displays last year, the following have informed the State Fair board they will participate: Sonoma, Del Norte, Trinity, Glenn, Plumas, Sierra, Nevada, Napa, Marin, Anderson, Tehama, Mariposa, Merced, Kings, San Luis Obispo and Imperial.

"It will be the grandest showing of California products in the history of the State," said Condee.

A card party will be given tomorrow evening by the Redwood City woman's club at its club house on Clinton street. Mrs. William J. Dusel is chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements.

Stage Production Of "Nothing But The Truth" Soon

One week from tonight, the culmination of five weeks' zealous efforts to make a riotous three-act comedy a huge success will be terminated in the Sequoia high school auditorium when "Nothing But The Truth," by James Montgomery, is staged by Redwood Chapter, Order of De Molay, and Redwood Assembly, Rainbow for Girls.

Efforts to secure the San Mateo Scouts' band were almost completed today, although it was not definite that the organization would be able to appear in Redwood City on that night.

Richard Dix last night finished a successful run in "Nothing But The Truth" at the Sequoia Theatre, where it was said to have kept record crowds laughing almost continuously.

The play to be given on the high school stage embodies nearly all of the screen features, and has the added advantages of one extra member in the cast. The part of Bishop Doran will be taken by Edmore Greeley, who was so well known in high school dramatics here three years ago. Greeley, it will be remembered, had the part of the minister in "Penrod." Booth Tarkington's delightful play which created so much comment. His part occupies most of the third act, and when he realizes that he has been swindled out of $7,000, he is certain to keep the audience full of smiles.

Miss Myrtle Tripp and Truman Letts, the two leading characters, are proving themselves a real heroine and a hero. Miss Tripp, as Owen Ralston, learns the rudiments of stage work rapidly, according to her coach, Harold Halveston of Stanford University. Letts is taking up where he left off two years ago. He had the lead in "Penrod," and he was prominent in numerous dramatic skills in high school assemblies.

There is a strong demand at Ryan's Drug Store for reserved seats, and those who would have a good location to see the play are urged not to wait. Backers of the play are optimistically predicting a full house, and tickets seem to substantiate this boast.

Miss Freeman has been rural school supervisor for several years. The other two supervisors are new appointees.

"DESERT SONG" comes to the Sequoia Theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 18-19-20 with matinees at 2:30 on Wednesday and Thursday.

DATE SET FOR FORMATION OF WATER DIST.

Belmont to Decide On Incorporation of New District

Friday, June 28, has been set as the date for the election at which the voters of Belmont will decide whether or not they desire their property to be incorporated as a county water district. A petition containing more than 150 names was presented to the board of supervisors of this county on Monday, asking that an election be called for that purpose.

The petition was presented by Attorney Charles N. Kirkbride of San Mateo, who has represented the people during the preliminary proceedings.

At present Belmont is supplied by a number of individual water supplies. The formation of a district is being advocated in order to guarantee to the people an adequate supply of water not only to meet the present needs of the community, but for future expansion. The project is being met with enthusiastic support by practically everyone in the district affected.

For the purpose of the election the district has been divided into three voting precincts. The following officers were named by the supervisors to conduct the election:

Precinct No. 1
Polling place—Belmont Grammar School.
Inspector, Mrs. P. Miller; judge, Mrs. Jas. Halloran; clerks, Mrs. E. J. Halcrow and Mrs. E. J. Heartsner.

Precinct No. 2
Polling place—Belle Moni Country Club Waiting Room.
Inspector, John Daley, Sr.; judge, Mrs. R. Manning; clerks, Miss Albertina French and Mrs. Stuart Ward.

Precinct No. 3
Polling place—California Sanitarium Waiting Room.
Inspector, Mrs. Ambrose Dunn; judge, Miss V. G. Romero; clerks, L. Svenson and Miss Grace Hill.

A party consisting of Mr. and F. C. George, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Potts, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Locker, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Bartheaux and Mr. and Mrs. George McNulty spent the week end at Santa Cruz and Capitola.

Famed Directors Will Appear At Outside Theatre

With Bernardino Molinari, the distinguished Italian maestro, arriving in San Francisco next Monday, and his first rehearsal with the personnel of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra scheduled for Tuesday morning, all preparations are virtually complete for the fourth season of summer concerts to be given in the Woodland Theatre at Hillsborough and in the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco.

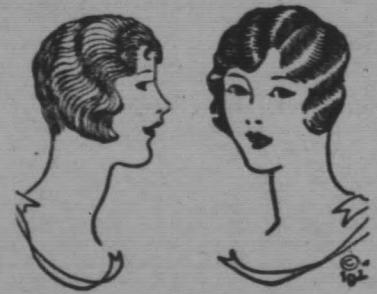

The instant success achieved by Molinari last season when he made his Pacific Coast debut in the Woodland Theatre and the succeeding concerts in San Francisco and the Hollywood bowl prompted the directors of the three California summer concert associations to open negotiations toward securing the return of Molinari again this year, with the result that to him goes the honor of conducting the opening concerts of the season.

As conductor of the famous Symphony Orchestra of the Augusteo in Rome during the past fifteen years, Molinari is known in all the musical centers of Europe and his popularity in America since his first appearance here two seasons ago has rapidly increased with each engagement.

Molinari will open his first concert of the season in the Hillsborough theatre with the suite "Autumn" from the "Four Seasons" of Vivaldi, from which last year he played the "Spring" suite. The symphony selected for this opening concert is the ever popular Beethoven's Seventh, and the Prelude to Wagner's "Meistersinger" will be the concluding number. Molinari has promised a distinct novelty for one of the numbers for his first Woodland Theatre program, the score for which he is bringing with him.

Details for the prompt handling of motor traffic have been perfected by the police traffic squads of Hillsborough, San Mateo and Burlingame, assuring motorists through traffic facilities for reaching the Woodland Theatre, which is just off the Highway on El Cerrito avenue, midway between Burlingame and San Mateo. The concerts will start promptly at 3 p. m. on each Sunday afternoon from June 23rd to August 11th, inclusive. For the convenience of patrons taking the Market street line, No. 40, or the Southern Pacific trains to San Mateo, a free bus marked with a large banner "Woodland Theatre Bus" is furnished by the Philharmonic Society to convey patrons directly to the Woodland Theatre and return them to the station after the concert.

1800 conversations at once through a cable less than 3 inches thick

The earth beneath our great cities is so crowded with pipes, cables, etc., that any further additions create serious engineering problems. Yet the number of telephone calls that must flash underground is steadily increasing.

The challenge to the scientific minds of the Bell System was to find a way for more conversations in existing conduits. Today, by many improvements, cables of 1800 pairs of wires have been perfected. Eighteen hundred conversations at once—600 more than before—can pulse through them.

There is no standing still in the Bell System. Better and better service at the lowest cost is the goal.

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and knew that no matter how careful people were of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. The next importance, then, is how to deal with it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell was in favor of getting as close to the cause as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant tasting, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not suppose drastic physics and purges. He believed they were good for some people. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use. Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels as promptly.

Do not let a day go by without bowel movement. Do not sit and wait but go to the nearest drugstore and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or write Dr. Caldwell, Dept. B, Monticello, N. Y., for free trial bottle.

Expert Handles His Last Snake

New York.—For more than 30 years Charles E. Snyder, former head keeper of mammals and reptiles at the New York zoological garden in Bronx park, befriended snakes.

He fed them, made pets of some, and pointed to their comparative harmlessness and utility in public lectures.

His interest in reptiles led the veteran keeper on periodic trips to capture more of them. One morning, in the Ramapo mountains, one of them struck for the liberty of its mate, which was almost in Snyder's grasp. The former keeper died, a victim of rattlesnake poison which anti-venom serum failed to halt.

Dr. Raymond L. Dittmars, curator of mammals and reptiles at the Bronx zoo, had rushed serum to him at the Good Samaritan hospital in Suffern, N. Y.

Snyder, who was fifty-seven, died about 24 hours after the two poison fangs had sunk into the back of his left hand. It took him five hours to reach the hospital, a delay which was held responsible for his death, although even after such a lapse of time the poison was considered unusual.

There was no trepidation in Snyder's mind as he struck into the Ramapo woods, accompanied by Paul Snyder, a friend and snake enthusiast.

They were on Little Tor mountain, pursuing separate trails 100 yards apart, when Snyder saw a rattler between four and five feet long gliding over a rock ledge near his feet.

As the snake squirmed into a crevasse Snyder ducked to catch its tail so that he might swing it out with a quick jerk into the open and pin it with a forked stick he was carrying.

As he stooped, another snake, apparently the mate of the first reptile, lunged from a hiding place in the grass. It sank its fangs into his hand. Snyder shrank back calling to his friend, and the reptiles took to cover.

With his companion at his side, Snyder sucked the two wounds, sought to squeeze out the poison and used a handkerchief as a tourniquet about his arm to shut off the circulation. Hospital and serum treatment followed, but to no avail.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Mexican Jumping Bean

A Mexican tree develops a three-cornered pod, in one of which an insect egg develops. When it hatches it coils and hurls itself against the side of its "house," carrying the house with it. Thus it is not the bean that jumps but the insect inside it. Thus it sleeps in cold weather but becomes active with heat. (© 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

Many Important Crops Ruined by Insect Pest

Washington.—Man's battle to master insect pests that annually destroy one-tenth of the crops in the United States is an uphill struggle which may never be wholly won, Dr. A. L. Quaintance said. Damage will be much heavier this year unless the Mediterranean fly which has just appeared in Florida is checked.

Telling of the effects of science to reduce the damage by the insect scourge, Doctor Quaintance said many important crops could not be grown without the entomologists.

Without the checks now provided by science, insects would multiply so rapidly the world would soon be completely overrun, he said. Insects have several million descendants in the course of a year.

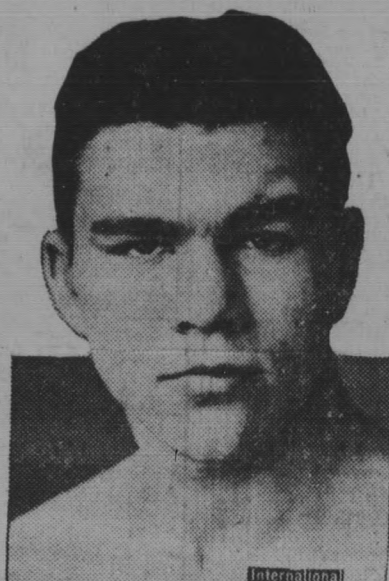

Health Chief Urges

Planes for Funerals

San Francisco.—Airplane funerals were advocated here recently by Dr. William C. Hassler, city health officer, as a means of solving the avowed problem of shrinking space for burial grounds. He said San Francisco's available acreage will be exhausted in another 25 years and predicted that the last resort is the Sierra ranges or the ocean.

Either can be reached readily by airplane, he said, in a few hours from any part of California.

Filipinos Enjoy Airplane Rides

Washington.—The sultan of Sulu, one of the few Filipino potentates still ruling under the protection of the United States, has become air-minded.

According to advices reaching the War department, the sultan was taken on his first airplane ride recently in an army machine and liked it.

A few years ago tribesmen in the Philippines were overcome with fear when the "giant birds" of the army soared overhead. They could not understand the roaring machines driven by army airmen on cross-country flights across the island and often the planes spread fear and consternation.

Then the sultan of Sulu visited Manila. He was invited for a short flight.

Capt. Donald Wilson piloted the sultan 5,000 feet above the city.

The potentate's retinue waited with quaking hearts until the sultan landed safely and grinning over his novel experience. In short excited sentences he explained the sensations of flying to his aides. They immediately besieged the army flyers to be taken up.

The pilots obligingly consented and others in the sultan's staff learned of the joys of soaring through boundless spaces far above the earth. News of their flights spread and the president of Bontoc expressed the desire for a short hop. Other members of the non-Christian tribes of the Philippine archipelago were flown and the news spread still further until the army air corps station in the islands was flooded with requests for flights in the "giant birds."

Reform School Lads Needn't Learn to Sew

Sacramento, Calif.—Sewing was ordered removed from the list of subjects taught incorrigible youths at the Preston reform school at Lone by E. E. Jensen, state director of institutions.

All the sewing equipment is to be transferred from the reformatory to the woman's ward at San Quentin prison, where, Jensen believes, it will be put to better use.

"The boys never did take to sewing," remarked the director, "they say they don't see any future in it for them."

Jail Explorer When He Works Overtime

New Orleans, La.—The landlady rented a room to Edward White, fifty-three, who said he was an "explorer." In the middle of the night she heard the door creak, and saw her new roomer in her room with a flashlight.

"What are you doing?" she asked. "Exploring. That is, er—er—I am looking for matches." White was taken to the city jail.

"A Daniel Come to Judgment!"

New York.—The weighty legal opinion involved that great modern question:

Might a girl of eighteen have a beau—or mightn't she?

All girlhood's future was at stake as pretty Josephine Pupcia of Yonkers faced the bar of justice in Yonkers before Judge C. W. Boote.

Josephine had been haled to court by her mother for running away to a relative's home because she would not live up to the parent's rules of never associating with boys, handling over all her weekly wages, never staying out later than 10 p. m. and never visiting girls at night.

The girl's lips quivered and a tear trickled down as she told the stern court:

"I had to run away, your honor. Listen to those rules."

So the judge listened and then he pondered. It may be that he thought of the time when he used to have an occasional date with a pretty brunette.

"I will lay down some new rules," he declared.

"You may remain out later than 10 o'clock. Say 11 or thereabouts."

"You may keep some of your earnings for yourself and also you may visit other girls at night."

"You may select your own clothes."

"But," exclaimed the defendant, "er, how about a boy fr—"

The court interposed, a twinkle in his eye.

"Oh, yes," he remarked. "You may

THE NON-CONFORMIST

Speaking of one of our well-known political leaders who has constantly been on the other side no matter what issue was being considered or what action was being advocated, one writer says of him:

"He is a non-conformist and proud of it. His cue is to find out what those associated with him think is wise, and then to do his best in embarrassing them in realizing the success of their undertaking. He is of the team but never with it. He never wants to go in the same direction as the rest, at the same time. It seems though he makes it his business to find out what his supposed friends and allies want to do, and then opposes it."

A great many people feel that it shows wisdom to find fault with whatever is being done, to pick flaws in whatever seems to have in it virtue or merit, to pull in the opposite direction. They have no idea of the meaning of co-operation; they have never realized the power of team work.

A Cruel Thing

Paul Poirot, the Paris dressmaker, said one day to a reporter in New York:

"Cruel things happen sometimes in dressmakers' shops. In my shop a mannequin was once displaying dinner gowns to a middle-aged couple. The mannequin was about nineteen, tall and supple, with gorgeous eyes. She put on dinner gown after dinner gown, and she certainly was beautiful in them."

"As she posed in her eighth or ninth gown, a rather daring creation, the middle-aged wife nudged her husband and hissed:

"George, you never look at me like that."

"Well," mumbled George, "you never look like that."

The Freudians

"Our Freudian playwrights crack up vice and roast virtue," said Publisher George Haven Putnam, of New York.

"At a Greenwich Village reception an old-style playwright said to a new-style or Freudian actress:

"There's old Boaz, the critic. Poor old Boaz! He's as ugly as sin, isn't he?"

"Don't you mean," said the actress, "as ugly as virtue?"

Napoleon's Lucky Stone

The great Napoleon firmly believed in the good fortune attracted by diamonds, and well he might, since it was the famous "Regent" diamond of France, on which he borrowed large sums of money, that made him emperor of the French. Later when the mortgage was lifted on the huge stone he had it set triumphantly in the hilt of his sword.

Jail Explorer When He Works Overtime

New Orleans, La.—The landlady rented a room to Edward White, fifty-three, who said he was an "explorer." In the middle of the night she heard the door creak, and saw her new roomer in her room with a flashlight.

"What are you doing?" she asked.

"Exploring. That is, er—er—I am looking for matches."

White was taken to the city jail.

Y. Boys' Camp To Be Opened Monday, June 17

A few places are available for boys 12 to 15 years of age in the first year of Camp Yu-Mi-Ci-A, the Y. M. C. A. camp for boys near Pescadero, which starts next Monday, June 17th.

As has been the policy in the past, this camp is open to all boys, irrespective as to whether they belong to any boys organization. With the nominal fee of $10 for ten days the committee feel that the camp is within the reach of practically any boy.

Announcement has just been made that the chef who prepared such tasty food last year, will again be in charge of the kitchen.

Robt. W. Simcock, who has had years of experience in the direction of camps for boys will be Camp Director for this period. The staff of ten leaders is of exceptionally fine calibre. Many of the number have acted in this capacity from the very first year of this very popular camp.

The program is set up in such a way as to appeal to the interest of this particular age boy. The activities are supervised and although educational, have none of the earmarks of school. Character development is the aim of the camp and all events on the camp program are set up with this in view. The camp is on a strictly non-military basis.

Further information about this period or the other five periods can be secured by calling Roy A. Hoberger at Redwood 974.

State's Bonds Reach Total Of Millions

By LAWRENCE MONFORT
SACRAMENTO, June 12—(CNB)—An extravagant, capricious mis-spending high-handedly now what a fictitious "George" must pay in the sweet by and bye when she settles down—so Miss California was sketched today.

Cursed or blessed with a champagne appetite so far as improvements are concerned, the state is staggering along under a burden of $756,318,696 bonded indebtedness, despite the fact that her income hardly is of the "beer" class, its entirely inadequate, according to State Controller Ray L. Riley, to meet the toll of civic, county and state expenditures, mounting annually at $45,000,000 strides.

Sold on the instalment plan of providing today what must be paid for tomorrow the state at large has found credit less strenuous if more costly than pay-as-you-go plan, and is increasing its debt at a steady pace, the controller declares.

State issues alone total $114,374,500 while counties are obligated for $294,930,818 of which San Mateo county owes $3,996,450 as compared with a total assessed valuation of $49,856,728.

Cities, perhaps even more than counties are prone to sign I. O. U.'s for the total of municipal bonded indebtedness, Riley reveals, is $347,413,378.

The three groups of government now spending $55,000,000 yearly in interest and sinking funds for the privilege of owing money are swelling their debts at an annual rate of $20,000,000 so far as counties are concerned and $25,000,000 in municipal debts, their bills swelling yearly in value of non-operative property, at a rate of 6.75 per cent.

All of which, Riley declares is something for the tax-payer and voter to consider seriously as one of the principal contributing factors to increasing tax rates.

"Attention should be directed," he declares, "to the increasing tendency on the part of municipalities to issue bonds with the first date of redemption advanced to a date in the distant future. A check of the bond data in this office reveals that nearly 12 per cent of the large total shown for 1928 municipal outstanding bonds covers issues of this nature."

"No doubt, many if not all of these issues outlive the improvements for which they were voted. The injustice of this procedure should be clearly apparent to every interested voter."

Governor's Secretary To Get Appointment

SACRAMENTO, June 12—(CNB)—The next move on the political checker-board, according to all signs and portents in the Capitol, will come with the elevation by Governor Young of his private secretary, Charles A. Whitmore, to the post of state building and loan commissioner.

Whitmore, a Visalia editor, is said to be virtually certain of the appointment as a reward for his service variously as state printer, state highway commissioner and more recently as right-hand man to the executive.

The new post carries a salary of $6,000 per year, a $1000 advancement over the private secretaryship in the gubernatorial office.

George R. Walker, the present building and loan commissioner, tendered his resignation sometime ago, effective at the pleasure of the governor.

Governor Young is expected to make the Whitmore appointment together with several other selections soon after the close of the bill-signing period next week.

Thomas Schugert of Walnut street, a veteran of the Civil War, was taken to the Community hospital last evening in a very serious condition. Little hope was expressed by attending physicians for his surviving during the night.

Edward T. Harrison, Lee T. Ross and Z. T. Thorne are representing the First National Bank and the San Mateo County Savings Bank at the state convention of bankers being held in Sacramento this week. It is reported that the three gentlemen will engage in a little golf while in the capital.

New Division of Gas Tax To Aid Smaller Counties

By LAWRENCE MONFORT
SACRAMENTO, June 12—(CNB)—The "big brother" idea, shunted today from the idealistic to the practical, hard-headed business of improving the state's highways will insure every county a minimum of $20,000 annually from gasoline tax revenues as a result of generosity of wealthier counties. This was assured as Governor C. C. Young signed Assembly Bill 1060, one of the outstanding measures enacted by the 1929 session.

Colusa, Glenn, Lassen, San Benito, Shasta and Yuba counties will receive benefits ranging from $7 to $400 as a result of approval of the measure, while 15 other counties, rated among the largest territorial, but smallest in population will receive thousands of dollars over amounts which they were last apportioned from the gasoline tax funds by virtue of the $20,000 clause of the state.

While San Mateo county may sacrifice perhaps, from this more equitable division of present or future revenues, Governor Young declared that public sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of the new plan in the largest and wealthiest counties of the state.

Under the new plan, the following major benefits will be derived by border and outlying counties: Alpine, $19,707.97; Amador, $313,124,045.94; El Dorado, $5,853.51; Inyo, $5,218.53; Lake, $4,672; Mariposa, $14,319.67; Modoc, $9,434.96; Mono, $17,988.56; Nevada, $3,623.21; Plumas, $9,117.65; Sierra, $15,917.98; Trinity, $16,877.33; Tuolumne, $3,217.

Advocated by supervisors of San Mateo county and highway and promotion organizations generally, the legislation passed without a dissenting vote.

"On the basis of the last apportionment of the counties' share of gas tax funds, 15 counties of the state will receive $155,000 more than they last received," declared the Governor. "Without exception these counties have important recreational attractions and a large part of the travel over their roads comes from without their borders. It is but right that this travel should assist in maintaining the roads when the counties affected are unable to do so by reason of small population and inadequate assessment."
